Schedule 4

Institutional Skills Development – BRAZIL and

Guidelines for Proposals

Summary of the call:

- Target audience: public and civil society institutions, science museums and botanic gardens
- Deadline: January 20, 2016
- Publication of results: March 2016
- Duration of grants: from April 2016 to March 2017
- Size of grants: from £10,000 to £100,000 per proposal
- Thematic priority areas:

What it is: the call has the purpose of providing co-financing for training and other capacitation and community engagement (such as academic internship, round tables discussions, online platform, dialogue with communities, courses and study trips) for its own employees and/or collaborators from related partner institutions (approved partner). The project must be carried out jointly with a British institution.

Background

1. The NEWTON FUND is a £375 million fund which, through science and innovation partnerships, promotes the economic development and welfare of vulnerable people in partnering countries. It aims to strengthen science and innovation capacity and unlock further funding to support poverty alleviation. It is delivered through 15 UK delivery partners in collaboration with 15 partner countries. In Brazil £27 million should be invested until 2017. The fund is part of the undertaking taken by the UK before the international community to promote initiatives to strengthen social and economic development of emerging countries, aiming to establish long-term partnership with the government and the philanthropic organizations.

2. The BRITISH COUNCIL is an international organization of the United Kingdom, incorporated by Royal Charter in 1940 and Supplement in 16th November 1993, registered in England as a public charity with the objective of promoting cultural relationships and education opportunities. It is one of the delivery partners of the Newton Fund in Brazil, through its local affiliate, managing programmes that focus on the pillar called "people", thus funding capacity building projects.

3. Within this work, this Institutional Skills Development call aims to support new training and/or capacity building and/or community engagement programmes for staff or key community partners of Brazilian public and civil society institutions, science museums and botanic gardens, where these programmes are focused on developing specific scientific (including natural, biomedical, mechanical and social sciences) or creative and innovative skills (technologies, methods, new ways of doing things) and are developed in conjunction with an expert counterpart organisation or specialist in the UK.

Overview of the funding opportunity

4. This call aims to provide co-financing (up to 50% of the costs) for training and other capacity building and community engagement programmes (such as exchange between academics, round tables, online platforms, community dialogue, courses, study tour(s) designed by Brazilian public (at all levels of government) and civil society institutions, science museums and botanic gardens, for their own employees and/or employees of related (prooved partner) institutions. This funding (representing a maximum of 50% of the total project budget) will be between £10,000 and £100,000 pounds.

5. The remaining 50% of the funding or in-kind resources needed to implement the project should come from the Brazilian beneficiary institution(s) or another source (e.g. a Brazilian grant, or a corporate partner/sponsorship, but not a publicly-funded UK institution). This co-financing can include non-financial contributions, such as office space, researchers allocated to the project and management costs, except the salary costs of permanent or existing staff at the beneficiary institution(s).

6. The specific activities under each training and/or capacity building and/or community engagement programme will be proposed by the applying organisation. It is expected that they include activities such as skills training, skills collaboration with UK counterparts and the transfer of experts and other capacity building programmes, such as exchange between academics, round tables, online platforms, courses, and community engagement projects.

7. These programmes should be delivered in partnership with an expert counterpart organisation in the UK (e.g. counterpart agencies in the same field, universities, non for-profit organisations, specialist research centres, individual researchers/experts). These UK partners should play a central role in the design and delivery of the training programme. A further criterion for the evaluation of the project will be the potential for the training programme to cement a longer-term collaboration relationship between the Brazilian and UK institutions involved.

8. Projects should demonstrate a positive contribution to the economic development and social welfare of Brazil, and activities should demonstrate a plausible pathway to such impact.

Examples of scope for proposals (other projects which don't follow this specific scopes will be assessed, as long as they demonstrate plausible pathway to such impacts):

- || Improving technical, scientific or engagement skills used in the design and delivery of public services or services and projects delivered by civil society organizations, science museums or botanic gardens;

- Developing new scientific or management skills to improve the efficiency of public services, or of new methods and products designed and delivered by civil society organizations, science museums or botanic gardens in partnership or not with partner community organizations
- Supporting technology transfer, both in terms of academic or traditional knowledge to real applications for a given community.
- Supporting scientific, technological and engineering and mathematics (STEM) education, especially in basic education projects at formal and informal environments, such as museums, science centres, venues of scientific promotions, among others.

Priority areas/themes are:

- Urban Transformations (including human rights, tackling violence, housing, transportation, access to water, immigration, social inclusion and reducing inequalities).
- Climate and Environment (including biodiversity and valorization of traditional knowledge).
- Agriculture (focus on small-scale, sustainable production in rural or traditional areas).
- Inclusive economy (including women empowerment, forest economy, fair-trade, entrepreneurship and creative economy in vulnerable territories)
- Neglected and Infectious Diseases.
- Social Science for social and economic development
- STEM in Basic Education (including popularization of sciences, community engagement and non-formal teaching spaces and methodologies)

9. Projects should be completed by 1st of March 2017, and should support the involvement of groups of at least 5 participants (exceptions for smaller groups may be given in special circumstances, subject to prior agreement and appropriately reflected in the level of funding requested)

10. Full proposals will be received until 20 January 2016, at 18.00 (Brasília time). These should be submitted using the template document accompanying these guidelines, and should include a brief description of the proposed training programme, its objectives and an explanation of its contribution to Brazilian economic development and social welfare, and the identification of the UK partner(s) involved.

SM

11. These full proposals will be assessed in February by external review panels organised by the British Council on the basis of the quality of the proposal, its development impact, and its capacity-building potential (further details under Assessment Criteria below). This review will also include an appraisal of the training and/or programme's potential to support a longer-term collaborative relationship between the Brazilian beneficiary institution(s) and the UK partner(s).

Scope of the call

12. The aim of this call is to support the professional development and community engagement of Brazilian public and civil society institutions, science museums and botanic gardens, by supporting them to develop or improve specific skills relevant to the social and economic development of Brazil in the areas listed above.
 13. It aims to achieve this by providing up to 50% of the financial resources necessary to design and deliver programmes according to Item 8 above to benefit employees of or communities engaged with the Brazilian public and civil society institutions, or science museums and botanic gardens applying to the call.
- Programmes are focused on the development of skills; the transfer of experts and other capacity building programmes, such as exchange between academics and eligible institutions, round tables, online platforms and community engagement projects relevant to their workplace duties or to projects where the applicant is involved with capacity building schemes. The definition of scientific in this context covers the full spectrum of scientific activity (including natural, biomedical, mechanical and social sciences). Whereas the resources are going to be applied to raise capacity in communities, sub-grants to other organisations are not going to be permitted, unless one or more associated organisations are listed in the call and the transference of resources is justified according to the budget presented. Associated organisations can contribute to match funds,
14. Moreover, this call also aims to support programmes that develop skills relating to the administration and teaching of science, especially the promotion and management of technology transfer programmes.

15. Finally, this call also aims to support programmes that support teaching skills in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) areas in basic education – including professional development programmes for teaching professionals and projects in non-formal teaching spaces, such as museums and other informal spaces used for the promotion of learning.

Relevance to economic development and social welfare

16. For the purpose of this Institutional Skills Development call, training programmes with development relevance are defined as activities that have the potential to contribute to the economic development and social welfare of Brazil, providing benefits to underprivileged and vulnerable communities in particular.

17. In order to be considered eligible for funding for this call, therefore, proposals must clearly articulate a plausible pathway along which the training programme proposed will lead to a positive impact (direct or indirect) on such communities within a short- to medium-term timeframe (3-5 years). Proposals with direct impact in poor, vulnerable or historically excluded populations are encouraged.

18. Applicants should therefore consider, within their expression of interest, how the programme will address matters related to poverty and development issues effectively and efficiently, working in areas of demonstrable relevance to local challenges in Brazil and using the strengths of UK institutions or experts to address them.

Eligibility

19. Beneficiary organisations (the organisations whose staff benefit from the training programmes or the partner communities) should be Brazilian public or civil society institutions or science museums or botanic gardens, but not including for-profit/commercial organisations

20. Proposals should be submitted by the organisation that will take the lead role in designing and delivering the training, and which has authority to execute the matched funding (the remaining 50% of the budget which does not come from the British Council)¹. Where this organisation is not the beneficiary organisation(s), to qualify to receive funding through this call it must still be a public or civil society or science museums or botanic gardens, and not a for-profit or commercial organisation.

21. Proposals should include the in-principle support of one or more counterpart organisation in the UK, which should be identified in the application. This organisation could be a public, academic, not for-profit (NGO) institution, a research centre. It should have a demonstrable (world-class) expertise in the area of the programme and its participation should be fundamental to the design and delivery of the programme.
22. A programme can include more than one UK counterpart, and/or more than one Brazilian beneficiary, as long as the proposal is led by one Lead Institution.

Funding available

23. The programmes will be eligible for a minimum of 10,000 pounds and up to 100,000 pounds of funding through this call, which should represent a maximum of 50% of the total budget of the training programme. A complete budget shall be included in the project proposal, comprising the required funding and the contribution presented by the proponent institution. 24. This support can cover:

- 11 Travel and subsistence costs in line with Brazilian British Council policies (e.g. economy class travel)
- 11 Short-term room hire for meetings, training events, seminars and conferences included within the programme – and additional costs pertaining to these activities (e.g. AV costs)

¹These funds may come ultimately from a different source (i.e. a sponsoring government department or a government fund, or a private sponsorship), but the applicant should have authority to spend them.

- Basic catering costs associated with events or meetings relating to the collaboration.
 - Publication costs and associated publishing and communications costs (including web page development by external providers, if appropriate) directly related to the programme
 - Human resources costs – if essential, appropriate and relevant to the programme – including but not limited to: staff costs of temporary personnel dedicated to the programme (not regular staff costs – the costs of permanent staff or existing positions cannot be included)
 - Other costs, including –
 - Essential equipment – directly related to the training programme
 - Consumables (including software licenses directly related to the training programme, for the duration of the programme)
 - Access to facilities or library services, or specialist analytical equipment
- The total value of these other costs should in principle not be greater than 5% of the total budget of the project (whichever is the greater) – costs above that amount should be agreed on a case-by-case basis
- Bank charges for transfer of funds from the Lead Institution to partner institutions, to cover travel and other expenses
25. This support cannot cover:
- Staff times or replacement costs for permanent or existing members of staff.
 - Costs related to the long-term rental of physical infrastructure (e.g. office space, laboratory facilities)
 - Tuition fees at academic institutions

Bench fees

Purchase or rental of office equipment

Mobile phone rental or purchase

Entertainment costs

26. The co-funding by the beneficiary institution can include financial and non-financial contributions, as efforts to the project, including office space, researchers allocated to the project, management costs, except the salary costs of permanent or existing staff at the beneficiary institution(s).

27. Please contact newton@britishcouncil.org.br if you are in doubt about the above or other costs that the Institutional Skills Development call can or cannot cover.

28. The call intends to finance a maximum of 1-15 projects in this first call, subjected to the level of interest and the levels of financing requested.

30. These full project proposals will be evaluated by the British Council and external experts appointed by the British Council. Awarded beneficiaries will be informed by the 1st week of March 2016.

Contracts will be negotiated and signed by the end of March 2016, and it is expected that projects will start from 1st May 2016. The signing of contracts will be subject to confirmation of matching funds.

Monitoring and reporting instruments have the central function of overseeing the achievement of objectives proposed in projects, with a central aspect being the monitoring of investments in economic and social development (ODA type resources) and the direct and indirect impact on vulnerable populations in Brazil.

All projects financed through the Newton Fund follow DCDE criteria for ODA (Official Development Assistance) type investment. More information is available on the Newton Fund global website.

Other criteria involved in reporting on proposals is the project's potential to build long-term collaborative relationships among Brazilian and UK organisations that are involved, or to strengthen those already in place.

As such, the reports must present information on project activities and spending (planned and executed), and will be structured per activity and according to general objectives. These will assist the British Council in maintaining a general overview of the overall scope and dissemination of implemented activities.

Activity impact indicators should not be misinterpreted as a means to assess projects. There are a series of indicators that may or may not apply or full under your project objectives and activities. Feel free to indicate those that do not apply to your project, and only report those that apply to your project, providing an accurate description of the activities actually implemented and realized, with presentation of evidence when requested. Please use the area for description to list other indicators that best apply to your project and that are not represented in the report. Our goal is to provide the most comprehensive report on the project's impact.

Commitments assumed by Recipients

The Recipient is the proposed leader of the project and shall be responsible for monitoring and reporting on the project as a whole, including on activities financed through the Newton Fund and those co-funded through the Recipient's Contribution, while further including activities implemented and realized by Brazilian partners with their respective UK recipients.

The Recipient shall submit two partial reports to the British Council according to deadlines established in this document, and, at the end of the project, a final report, both including a list of activities and financial breakdown, along with supporting documentation on counterpart financing and results.

The reports shall comply with the templates provided by the British Council. To facilitate matters, all reports may be compiled in the same file during the course of the project.
the template shall ensure this facility.

A suitable report is one of the prerequisites for the outlay of concessions by the British Council. The British Council reserves the right to suspend financing or request reimbursement of amounts/Grants already provided in specific cases, described in the concession agreement, such as fraud or poor use of resources.

The British Council reserves the right to assess and approve supporting documentation for the Recipient's Contribution financing and spending. Regarding the program report, the British Council is obliged to assess the performance of beneficiaries based on the activities agreed upon in Annex 2 of this agreement.

Monitoring and Reporting Structure: which are the basic documents and how must they be completed?

The report shall be comprised of the following documents, grouped in a single file:

- Partial report, to be sent accompanied by rendering of accounts documentation for the period in question;
- final report, relative to the project as a whole, to be submitted in March 2017, accompanied by rendering of accounts documentation for the last quarter of the project; outlay of the remaining 20% of the resources will occur immediately following approval of the final report and the respective supporting documentation.

Each report is comprised of 5 sections:

- project cover sheet (excel spreadsheet – tab 1);
- financial report (excel spreadsheet – tab 2);
- activity report (excel spreadsheet – tab 2);
- general impact report (excel spreadsheet – tab 2);

* annexes (supporting documentation)

FINANCIAL REPORT (Excel Tab 2)

Note that the financial report follows the same project budget structure as that submitted to the British Council during the candidature of the proposal. It is split into activities with cost breakdowns, and into resources requested from the Newton Fund and presented as Recipient's Contribution.

The "Budget" columns must be completed with the same values presented in the candidature budget, and will serve as a reference to oversee the application of resources throughout the year. As such, the "Budget – Newton Fund" column must reflect, per activity, the amounts requested from the Newton fund, while the "Budget – Co-fund" column carries those presented as Recipient's Contribution.

The "Actual" columns must reflect the spending to date on each activity up to the period of the report, thus, up to the end of the previous quarter. The same is true for the Recipient's Contribution, thus the "Actual – Newton Fund" column must state spending based on resources through the Newton Fund, while the "Actual – Co-fund" column reports spending based on co-funding (whether from the proposing institution or partners, as the proposing institution is responsible for the project report as a whole).

A table of equivalence will be provided to Recipients which serves as a reference for quantification of the Recipient Contribution, in the event that this was not already done at the time of submitting the proposal. The entire Recipient's Contribution will have to be categorized as co-financing (financial); Equivalent resources (personnel); study grants, etc); In-natura; A mix of these categories.

ACTIVITY REPORT (Excel Tab 2 – pages 2, 3 and 4)

This part of the report is dedicated to updating information on the impact of the project according to activity provided in a simple and rapid manner.

Before completing, please remember that the impact per activity indicators must not be misinterpreted as a project assessment method.

There are a series of indicators that may or may not apply or full under your project objectives and activities. Feel free to indicate those that do not apply to your project, and only report those that apply to your project applies, providing an accurate description of the activities actually implemented and realized, while able to provide proof when requested.

Please use the area for description to list other indicators that best apply to your project and that are not represented in the report. Our goal is to provide the most comprehensive report on the project's impact.

Please complete all the number relative to each activity in the category to which it applies. Consider the explanations below on indicator and the evidence for proof in each case. If the indicator does not apply to an activity or the project as a whole, simply complete with "N/A".
